About me

Hi! I'm an ex-IT consultant that realised variety is the spice of life and decided to travel Australia for some odd couple of months. Hence the 'ex'.

I learn things pretty quickly, I'm flexible and I have been described by at least two of my friends as 'funny'. I also have an eye for design.

I've come to Australia to pick up a few new skills and broaden my horizon. That being said, I don't necessarily want to shy away from my main profession - I will gladly conjure up anything your heart desires on a computer screen if that is what your company needs.

Education

2012 – 2014 Master of Science: Computer Science | VUB, Belgium

2009 – 2012 Bachelor in Computer Science | VUB, Belgium

2014 – 2016 Graphics & Digital Media (not finished) | Arteveldehogeschool, Gent

Experience

02/2023 as house keeper in Melbourne with Workaway
House/garden maintenance, constructing a doggy park and patching up the paddock it was in (repairing fences, mowing grass, ...), digging a French gutter.

07/2021 as housesitter in Czech Republic with Workaway
General housesitting tasks, keeping the house clean, taking care of two cats, and keeping an edible garden alive. Some general fix-up jobs.

03/2017 – 01/2023 as IT Consultant at Capgemini
Worked at a variety of projects as a front-end developer. This environment taught me to learn quick and adapt to new teams, as I was frequently moved between opportunities.

2008 – 2013 volunteer at music venue/bar CC De Meent doing hospitality, ticket taker, bartending.
During my high school years and partway into my university studies, I volunteered at a music venue. I took entry tickets, did bartending (serving mostly beers, soft drinks and wine), and washing the drinking glasses.

every august during 2003 – 2009 at the Colruyt as a factory worker

Student job during my high school education. My responsibility was to prepare packages from large stock at a big depot, which were then sent to stores. Efficiency was rewarded. During the later years I was allowed to drive a small forklift to move around large stock items.
